Community Orientation Club - "Plantation Drive - Machohalli"

REPORT

Name of the Event	Plantation Drive - "Machohalli"
Date	23/05/2023
Day	Sunday
Total No. of Participants	50
Target Class / Course	I B.com and BBA
Highlights of the Event	Plantation drives engage communities in environmental stewardship, fostering a sense of pride and responsibility. These initiatives often serve as educational platforms, raising awareness about the importance of trees and ecosystems. Economically, plantation drives can create employment opportunities and stimulate local economies, particularly through eco-tourism. Outcomes: Air Temperature Reduction: Tree plantations contribute to the reduction of ambient air temperatures through the process of transpiration and shading. This cooling effect is particularly beneficial in urban areas, mitigating heat stress and improving overall comfort. Carbon Storage and Wood Products: As trees grow, they sequester carbon in their biomass, contributing to carbon storage. Additionally, sustainably managed plantations can provide a renewable source of wood products, supporting industries such as timber, paper, and furniture. Flood Prevention: Strategic tree planting can help prevent or mitigate the impact of floods. Trees act as natural barriers, slowing down and absorbing rainwater, reducing the risk of flash floods and protecting downstream areas. Health and Well-being: Green spaces created through plantation drives have positive effects on human health and well-being. Access to nature is associated with lower stress levels, improved mental health, and increased physical activity. Soil Conservation: Planting trees helps in soil conservation by preventing soil erosion. The root systems of trees bind the soil, reducing the risk of landslides and maintaining the integrity of the landscape.

INDIAN AVIATION INDUSTRY

The Indian aviation industry has experienced significant growth over the past decade, with a rising number of passengers, increasing airline connectivity, and expanding infrastructure. Here are some key aspects of the growth in the Indian aviation industry:

1. Passenger Traffic: India has witnessed a steady growth in domestic and international passenger traffic. The rise in disposable incomes, affordability of air travel, and growing middle-class population have contributed to the increased demand for air travel. According to the Airports Authority of India (AAI), the domestic passenger traffic in India has been growing at an annual rate of around 15% in recent years.
2. Low-Cost Carriers: The emergence of low-cost carriers (LCCs) in India has played a crucial role in the growth of the aviation industry. Airlines like IndiGo, SpiceJet, and GoAir have introduced affordable fares, stimulating air travel among price-sensitive consumers. LCCs have captured a significant market share and have been expanding their fleet size and domestic and international routes.
3. Government Initiatives: The Indian government has implemented various policies and initiatives to promote the growth of the aviation sector. The Regional Connectivity Scheme (RCS) or UDAN (Ude Desh ka Aam Nagrik) aims to enhance regional air connectivity by providing financial incentives and subsidies to airlines operating in underserved and unserved airports. This has led to the opening of new routes and increased air connectivity.
4. Infrastructure Development: The Indian government has been investing in the development of aviation infrastructure, including the expansion and modernization of airports across the country. Airports like Delhi, Mumbai, Bengaluru, and Hyderabad have undergone significant upgrades to handle the growing passenger traffic. New airports have also been constructed in cities like Kochi, Chennai, and Pune.
5. Foreign Direct Investment (FDI): The Indian government has allowed increased foreign direct investment in the aviation sector, which has attracted global players and increased competition. This has led to collaborations, joint ventures, and investments from international airlines and aviation companies, contributing to the growth of the industry.
6. Technology and Innovation: Advancements in technology have played a vital role in enhancing the efficiency and growth of the Indian aviation industry. Airlines have adopted advanced systems for ticketing, passenger handling, and operations. Online travel agencies and mobile apps have made it easier for customers to book flights and access information.
7. Cargo and MRO Services: Along with the passenger segment, the cargo and maintenance, repair, and overhaul (MRO) services in the aviation industry have also witnessed growth. With the rise in e-commerce and international trade, the demand for air cargo services has increased. Additionally, India has seen the establishment of MRO facilities, attracting airlines from around the world for aircraft maintenance and repair.

While the Indian aviation industry has experienced remarkable growth, it has also faced challenges such as fluctuating fuel prices, regulatory issues, infrastructure constraints, and intense competition. Nevertheless, the sector's potential remains promising, and efforts are being made to address these challenges and sustain the growth trajectory.

Is Airline industry growing in India?

Over the past six years, India's domestic passenger traffic has grown at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of around 14.5 per cent, while international passenger traffic has increased by a CAGR of around 6.5 per cent

GOVERNMENT INITIATIVES

Some major initiatives undertaken by the Government are:

- In the Union Budget 2023-24:
 - Rs. 3,224.67 crores (US$ 440.36 million) has been allocated to the Ministry of Civil Aviation.
 - Government to revive 50 aircraft landing sites comprising airports, heliports, water aerodromes, and advanced landing grounds to improve regional air connectivity.
 - In the budget 2022-23, the RCS (Regional Connectivity Scheme) UDAN scheme which aims to stimulate regional air connectivity has been allocated Rs. 601 crores (US$ 77.52 million).
 - For better execution of the PM-Gati Shakti vision, Mr. Jyotiraditya M. Scindia, Minister of Civil Aviation asks for synergy between the Central and State Governments to build 16 new airports in Madhya Pradesh, Chhattisgarh, Uttar Pradesh, Rajasthan, and Maharashtra.
- NABH (NextGen Airports for Bharat) - Nirman is a government initiative to expand airport capacity more than five times to handle billions of trips a year, in the next 10-15 years.
- AAI Startup Policy: Delivering a framework & mechanism for the interaction of AAI with internal and external stakeholders that catalyze innovation at airports and leveraging technology for addressing challenges and enhancing the delivery of services to passengers.
- Under four rounds of bidding of RCS-UDAN, as of November 2022, 459 routes have commenced, operationalizing 70 airports including 2 water aerodromes & 9 heliports.
- Union Minister for Civil Aviation Mr. Jyotiraditya Scindia launches Digi Yatra for three airports in the country.
- Civil enclave to be built in Jammu at a cost of Rs. 861 crores.
- In October 2022, Prime Minister Mr. Narendra Modi laid the foundation stone of the C-295 Aircraft Manufacturing Facility in Vadodara, Gujarat.
- The Ministry of Civil Aviation (MoCA) announced that airlines can operate domestic flights without any capacity restriction, effective from October 18, 2021.
- In October 2021, the Union Minister of Civil Aviation, Mr. Jyotiraditya M. Scindia, virtually flagged off the first direct flight along the Shillong–Dibrugarh route, under the RCS-UDAN (Regional Connectivity Scheme - Ude Desh Ka Aam Naagrik) scheme.
- Ministry of Civil Aviation launched the Krishi UDAN 2.0 scheme in October 2021. The scheme proposes assistance and incentive for the movement of agri-produce by air transportation. The Krishi UDAN 2.0 will be implemented at 53 airports across the country, largely focusing on Northeast and tribal regions, and is expected to benefit farmers, freight forwarders, and airlines.

- On October 20, 2021, Prime Minister Mr. Narendra Modi inaugurated the Kushinagar International Airport in Uttar Pradesh. The international airport is likely to facilitate the air travel requirements of international Buddhist pilgrims in India.
- In August 2021, the government plans to implement a biometric boarding system using facial technology in six airports, including Bengaluru, Hyderabad, and Pune. The project is currently in the testing phase.
- The Ministry of Civil Aviation (MoCA) is hopeful that aspiring commercial pilots will soon be able to get trained in India without having to leave the country. In this regard, the government in July 2021 announced setting up eight new flying academies across the following five airports: Belagavi and Kalaburagi in Karnataka, Jalgaon in Maharashtra, Khajuraho in Madhya Pradesh, and Lilabari in Assam.
- The government is planning to start 14 more water aerodromes across the country, after the successful launch of seaplane service by Prime Minister, Mr. Narendra Modi, between the Statue of Unity near Kevadlya in Gujarat's Narmada district and Sabarmati Riverfront in Ahmedabad in October 2020.

Airports can be classified based on various factors, including their size, location, services offered, and operational characteristics. Here are some common classifications of airports:

1. International Airports: These airports have customs and immigration facilities, allowing them to handle international flights. They serve as gateways for international travel and typically have a wide range of domestic and international destinations.
2. Domestic Airports: These airports primarily handle domestic flights within a specific country. They may have limited or no international services, and they often serve as regional hubs connecting smaller cities and towns.
3. Regional Airports: Regional airports are smaller airports that serve a specific region or area. They usually have a more limited range of destinations compared to international or domestic airports, catering to smaller aircraft and lower passenger volumes.
4. Hub Airports: Hub airports are major transfer points for connecting flights. They have a significant number of flights arriving and departing, enabling passengers to transfer between different flights and airlines. Hub airports often have extensive facilities, including multiple runways and terminals.
5. Secondary Airports: Secondary airports are alternative airports located near major cities or served by low-cost carriers. They provide additional capacity and options for travellers, often offering cheaper fares compared to primary airports in the same region.
6. City/Airport-State Airports: These airports are usually owned and operated by a city or a state government. They serve as important transportation hubs for the respective cities or states and may have a significant impact on the local economy.
7. General Aviation Airports: General aviation airports cater to private and recreational aircraft, flight training, and other non-commercial aviation activities. They often have smaller runways and facilities designed to accommodate smaller aircraft.

8. Military Airports: Military airports are used by the armed forces for military operations, training, and logistical purposes. Some military airports may also have limited civilian operations.
9. Cargo/Freight Airports: These airports primarily handle air freight and cargo operations. They have specialized facilities and infrastructure to accommodate cargo aircraft and support the movement of goods.

It's important to note that the classification of airports can vary from country to country, and there may be additional subcategories or unique classifications specific to certain regions or regulatory bodies.

Airfield components

Airfields, also known as airports or air bases, consist of various components that support aircraft operations and ensure the safe and efficient movement of aircraft. Here are some essential components of an airfield:

1. Runway: The runway is a paved surface where aircraft take off and land. It is typically a long, straight strip of asphalt or concrete designed to accommodate different types and sizes of aircraft. Runways are equipped with lighting systems, navigational aids, and markings to guide pilots during landing and take-off.
2. Taxiways: Taxiways are pathways that connect runways with aircraft parking areas, hangars, and other facilities. They provide a route for aircraft to move on the ground between different areas of the airfield. Taxiways are marked and equipped with lighting to assist pilots in navigating the airport surface.
3. Apron/Ramp: The apron, also referred to as the ramp, is the area where aircraft are parked, loaded, unloaded, and serviced. It is located adjacent to the terminal building or hangars and provides parking stands or gates equipped with ground support equipment, such as boarding bridges, fuelling vehicles, and baggage handling equipment.
4. Terminal Building: The terminal building is the passenger facility where travellers check-in, pass through security, and board or disembark from aircraft. It houses various amenities like check-in counters, security screening areas, departure and arrival lounges, retail shops, restaurants, and baggage claim areas.
5. Air Traffic Control Tower (ATCT): The ATCT is a tall structure from which air traffic controllers monitor and manage aircraft movements within the airport's airspace. Controllers communicate with pilots, provide clearance for take off and landing, and ensure safe separation between aircraft.
6. Navigational Aids: Airfields are equipped with navigational aids to assist pilots in safely navigating and landing at the airport. These aids include instruments such as runway lighting systems, precision approach systems like Instrument Landing System (ILS), and navigation beacons.
7. Hangars: Hangars are large enclosed structures used for aircraft storage, maintenance, and repair. They provide shelter for aircraft, equipment, and personnel. Hangars can range in size from small individual aircraft storage units to large maintenance facilities capable of accommodating multiple aircraft.
8. Fuelling Facilities: Airfields have fuelling facilities where aircraft are refuelled. These facilities include storage tanks, fuel trucks, and pumps to provide aviation fuel, such as Jet A or Avgas, to aircraft.

9. Fire and Rescue Services: Airfields have dedicated fire and rescue services to respond to emergencies and provide fire suppression and rescue operations in the event of aircraft accidents or incidents. These services ensure the safety of passengers, crew, and airport personnel.
10. Ground Support Equipment (GSE): GSE refers to the specialized vehicles and equipment used on the ground to support aircraft operations. This includes aircraft towing vehicles, baggage carts, ground power units, de-icing equipment, and other vehicles and machinery essential for aircraft servicing and ground operations.

These are some of the primary components of an airfield. The specific layout and infrastructure of an airfield can vary depending on factors such as the size of the airport, its operational requirements, and the types of aircraft it serves.

Airline operations

Airline operations encompass all the activities involved in running an airline and ensuring the safe and efficient transportation of passengers and cargo. Here are some key aspects of airline operations:

1. Flight Scheduling: Airlines create flight schedules that determine the routes, frequencies, and timings of their flights. Factors considered include demand, aircraft availability, crew availability, airport slots, and connecting flight coordination.
2. Fleet Management: Airlines manage their fleet of aircraft, including acquiring, maintaining, and retiring aircraft. This involves considerations such as fleet size, aircraft types, leasing or purchasing decisions, maintenance schedules, and optimizing aircraft utilization.
3. Ground Operations: Ground operations cover a wide range of activities that occur on the ground, including passenger check-in, baggage handling, aircraft servicing, fuelling, aircraft cleaning, catering, and gate operations. These processes ensure the smooth transition of passengers and goods between the terminal and aircraft.
4. Crew Management: Airlines handle crew scheduling, training, and management. This includes scheduling pilots, flight attendants, and other crew members, ensuring compliance with regulatory requirements, managing duty hours, and providing appropriate rest periods.
5. Safety and Security: Safety and security are paramount in airline operations. Airlines adhere to stringent safety protocols and regulations set by aviation authorities to ensure the safety of passengers, crew, and aircraft. Security

- measures are in place to mitigate risks and protect against unauthorized activities.
6. Passenger Services: Airlines provide various passenger services to enhance the travel experience. This includes ticketing and reservation assistance, check-in options (online, self-service kiosks, or counters), boarding procedures, in-flight services (meals, entertainment, and comfort amenities), and assistance for passengers with special needs.
 7. Cargo Operations: Airlines handle the transportation of cargo, including general goods, perishables, valuables, and live animals. Cargo operations involve accepting, tracking, loading, unloading, and delivering cargo shipments while ensuring compliance with safety and security regulations.
 8. Maintenance and Engineering: Airlines have dedicated maintenance and engineering departments responsible for the maintenance, repair, and inspection of aircraft. Regular maintenance checks, routine servicing, and repairs are performed to ensure aircraft airworthiness and reliability.
 9. Air Traffic Management: Airlines work closely with air traffic control (ATC) to manage and coordinate flight operations within the airspace. ATC provides guidance on routes, airspace clearance, and ensures safe separation between aircraft.
 10. Crisis Management: Airlines have contingency plans and protocols in place to address unforeseen events, emergencies, or disruptions. This includes managing flight cancellations, delays, rerouting, and passenger re-accommodation during adverse weather, natural disasters, or other incidents.

These are some of the key aspects of airline operations, which involve complex coordination, regulatory compliance, and meticulous planning to deliver safe, efficient, and reliable air transportation services.

Importance of air travel documents ticket passport visa

Air travel documents such as tickets, passports, visas and health documents are essential for international travel. Here's why these documents are important:

1. Tickets: Airline tickets serve as proof of purchase and confirmation of a seat on a specific flight. They contain crucial information such as the passenger's name, flight details, departure and arrival airports, dates, and seat assignments. Without a valid ticket, passengers may be denied boarding or face difficulties during check-in and security checks.
2. Passports: A passport is an official government document that verifies a traveller's identity and citizenship. It provides a standardized format for personal information, including name, date of birth, nationality, and a unique passport number. Passports are required for international travel as they serve as an entry and exit document, granting permission to cross borders and enter foreign countries.

3. Visas: Visas are official endorsements or stamps issued by foreign governments on a traveller's passport, granting permission to enter and stay in a particular country for a specified period and purpose. Visas are necessary for travellers from countries that require pre-approval to visit another country. Each country has its own visa requirements, which may include application forms, supporting documents, fees, and an interview process.
4. Proof of certain vaccination and /or health certificates are required by a few countries. It is the passengers responsibility to check whether he/she has the necessary vaccinations/certificates.

The importance of these travel documents can be summarized as follows:

Legal Compliance: Airline tickets, passports, and visas are necessary for legal compliance with immigration and travel regulations. Failure to possess valid and appropriate travel documents can result in denied entry, deportation, or legal consequences.

Identification and Verification: These documents provide a means of verifying the identity, citizenship, and travel history of individuals. They help authorities and airline staff confirm the passenger's identity and eligibility to travel.

Border Control and Security: Travel documents play a crucial role in maintaining border control and security. Passports and visas enable countries to regulate and monitor the entry and exit of travellers, ensuring compliance with immigration laws and security measures.

Smooth Check-In and Boarding: Airlines use travel documents to verify passenger information during check-in and boarding processes. This helps ensure that only authorized individuals are allowed to board the aircraft.

Safety and Emergency Situations: In case of emergencies or unforeseen circumstances, travel documents help identify and locate passengers. They also assist authorities in providing necessary assistance, contacting next of kin, and facilitating emergency repatriation if required.

Overall, air travel documents, including tickets, passports, and visas, are vital for compliance with immigration regulations, maintaining security, and ensuring a smooth and orderly travel experience for both passengers and authorities. It is important for travelers to understand and fulfill the requirements related to these documents before embarking on international journey

Baggage allowances,Acceptances,policies and BRS procedures.

The price of an airline ticket may include transportation for the passenger, as well as personal baggage .The fare paid dictates the kind of seat and service, and also the Free baggage allowance. This allowance comprises the checked checked baggage and also the cabin baggage.

There are two types of baggage that passengers will carry-on(hand) baggage and checked baggage. Checked baggage refers to all baggage of which the carrier takes sole custody and for which the carrier issues a baggage tag.

Checked baggage is carried in the hold of the aircraft on which the passenger is travelling.

Hand baggage that is carried by passengers and stowed in the cabin under the passengers control and custody.

The passenger and his baggage must be transported on the same aircraft. Thus, checked baggage shall arrive

- On time
- Undamaged
- Complete (not pilfered)

Airlines may refuse to carry

- Articles that are likely to endanger the air craft or persons or property on board
- Articles that are prohibited by applicable laws ,regulations or safety standards of any country to be flown from, to or over
- Articles that are unsuitable for carriage by reason of weight, size and character
- Live animals
- Weapons
- Explosives
- Dangerous goods

Checked baggage must undergo the screening (x-ray) procedures. The screening of outbound and transfer baggage's are handled by the airport screening system which uses the technology to identify and or detect weapons, explosives or other dangerous articles.

Baggage Reconciliation System(BRS)

Baggage reconciliation is done for security purpose for all outbound passengers and baggage data. The data is stored in a Baggage Reconciliation System (BRS) which then issues the authorisation for a specific flight. The purpose of baggage reconciliation is to transport only authorised bags i.e baggage of passengers who are traveling on that very flight or baggage that has been subject to other security control measures.

Passenger categories

Following passenger categories need special assistance /special handling services

- Important passenger's VIP, CIP, VVIP
- Expectant mothers
- Unaccompanied minors
- Passengers with reduced mobility
- Deportees and inadmissible passengers
- Unruly disruptive passengers
- Meet and assist and passengers with language problem
- Infants
- Passengers requiring extra seat
- ID passengers

Arrival and transfer services provided to passengers upon the arrival of a flight. This includes perform the pre arrival duties, handle the post arrival services, process mishandled baggage and handle the transfer passenger functions.

Preparing for short connection passengers for onward journey, assisting the special categories passenger in expediting the process of clearing the emigration, customs and delivery of baggage

Mishandled baggage means baggage that is not arrived in the flight or damaged, or delayed, lost or pilfered.

Passengers will report mishandled baggage to the baggage claim department of Airline on arrival. Based on the information provided by the passenger the automatic search for the baggage begins in the airlines baggage system. Most airlines use a global system called WORLD TRACER baggage system which is a product provided jointly by IATA and SITA

Airline is liable to pay the compensation to passenger as per the Conditions of Carriage in case of damage, delay, pilfered or lost baggage.

AIR CARGO

Advantages of air cargo

Highest Shipping Speed

Air cargo is the fastest and the most convenient way to ship goods. When there is a need to deliver your goods quickly, you would always want to prefer air freight over sea freight or road transport due to a certain trustworthiness that comes attached with it.

Reliable Timelines

As air cargo has the speed advantage, it gives you a lot more reliable timelines. Being on top of their schedules, the arrival and departure times of flights are on point. Even if you miss a flight, your shipments won't be delayed much as there are usually flights departing every hour.

Worldwide Reach

Using air cargo, you can send your packages almost everywhere around the world. It becomes easier to reach areas that are not easily accessible through other modes of transport. Airlines have a huge network and you can leverage that to expand your business reach.

Low Insurance Costs

You don't have to pay a lot of insurance premium for air cargo. This is because air freight has relatively shorter transportation time. Even if the rates are higher in this mode of transport, it does save you money in terms of lower insurance costs.

Better Shipment Security

Air cargo offers you the best level of security out of all the shipment modes. Your packages have less exposure to theft and damage due to strict safety restrictions. This reduces the chances of extra costs in the form of losses during transit.

Lesser Warehousing Needs

Air cargo doesn't require you to keep a lot of items in stock. As the transit times are faster, the warehousing needs become lesser. If the customs clearance, cargo inspection and cargo handlers are efficient enough, most of your shipments would be cleared within a matter of hours.

Lighter Packaging

Unlike ocean cargo, air shipments require lighter packaging. This not only saves your time but also saves your money that you'd otherwise spend on additional packaging.

Timely Status Updates

Many air cargo companies give you the opportunity to track your shipments using a web application. It allows you to constantly monitor the status of your cargo from departure to arrival and stay informed.

Conclusion

To conclude, if you want your shipments to travel long distances in short periods of time with high levels of security, air cargo is the type of freight service for your business to avail. This also becomes the best choice if you have an urgent need to ship a product or if the nature of your goods require special standards of protection.

As the e Commerce industry grows across the world, the significance of air cargo is only going to increase.

The primary objective for air cargo acceptance and handling is to ensure that consignments are ready for carriage in compliance with operator and IATA regulations, as well as with export and import rules of the countries through which the cargo will transit. In general, all items to be transported using commercial aircraft must pass through an acceptance process. There are certain procedures that must be followed regardless of the type of cargo. Other procedures may only apply to certain types of cargo.

Calculation of chargeable weight under airfreight in exports and imports.

Freight charge under air shipment is calculated on the basis of weight of cargo. Commonly a question arises here, whether actual weight or chargeable weight?

In an air shipment, airfreight charge is calculated on the basis of actual weight or volume weight, whichever ever is higher. Then what is Volume weight? How to find volume weight?

Why chargeable weight in airfreight?

Let me explain the importance of chargeable weight in simple terms. If a shipper exports cotton, the actual weight of cotton is very low but occupies a good amount of space as a volume. In this case, if airfreight is charges on the basis of actual weight of cargo, the said shipper needs to pay a very nominal airfreight compared to a shipper who exports iron plates. Am I right? Here is the importance of volume weight by considering volume of cargo and actual weight of cargo at an equilibrium point.

Calculation of volume weight in airfreight.

In order to find volume weight of cargo you need to have measurement of package of goods. If the cargo measurement are in centimetres, the total volume of cm³ to be divided with 6000. In other words, i.e Length X Width X Height X No. of pieces divide by 6000 if the dimension unit is in cm, divide by 366 if the dimension unit is inches. Air carriers charge airfreight on the basis of volume weight or actual gross weight whichever is higher is chargeable weight

So the chargeable weight is calculated on the basis of volume weight or gross weight, whichever is higher.

Example

Shipment

Gross weight = 400kgs

Measurement of cargo = 102cm X 98cm X 106cm = 1 box
80cm X 65cm X 103cm = 3 boxes

Total volume = 1059576 + (535600 X 3) = 2666376 cubic centimetre

Total volume weight = 2666376 / 6000 = 444.396kgs

Here in shipment gross weight is 400kgs and volume weight is 444.396kgs. Hence, Chargeable weight is 444.5 kegs(Rounded off) which is higher than the gross weight

Rounding off of units and measurements

A. Rounding off of chargeable weight- When the gross weight is in kilograms, the fractions are always rounded up as follows.

The fraction above half kg i.e 0.501 to 0.999 must be rounded up to the next higher full kg.

If the fraction is exactly 0.5k i.e 0.500 it remains same as 0.5kg

A smaller fraction 0.001 to 0.499 must be rounded up to next half kg i.e 0.5kg

B.Th. measurement units in dimensions of shipments are mainly centimetre or inches. When the given dimension of shipment is in fraction/decimal of centimetre or inches it should be rounded off to calculate the chargeable weight as follows.

Centimetre: - Half or more than half round off to next higher cm. Less than half round off to the next lower cm.

Inches:- Half or more than half inches than round off to next higher full inches. Less than half round off to the next lower in.

Booking & Planning Shipments

The process of cargo handling begins with booking and planning shipments, there is much to be done before the shipment even leaves the facility. Having a solid plan of action allows for smooth booking and prevents fewer problems further down the chain of events. It is necessary to follow the steps below to book your shipment properly. These activities also include the steps handled by freight forwarders as listed below:

- Receive shippers' requests and check the security status
- Receive shipper freight information
- Plan the routing-direct or consolidation
- Request capacity against forwarder or carrier inventories
- Confirm capacity
- Arrange pick up of freight
- Picked up from the shipper

How Air Cargo is Received and Accepted for Shipment

The next step in logistics is how air cargo is received and accepted for transport. This is a multi-step process that includes various stockholders including trucking companies, as well as cargo and ground handling service providers amongst others.

Throughout the shipment process, safety remains a priority for all parties of the air cargo supply chain. For instance, it's important to ensure clear and correct labelling and identification of packages. In addition, the packages themselves must be suited to the content and be able to protect the goods from any damage.

Let's take a closer look at what happens once the shipment is received by the carrier when it comes to discussing air cargo handling as so much of the preparation for the flight happens there.

Receive Shipments into Carrier Domain

Once the freight forwarding truck arrives at the carrier's domain and the truck driver has informed the Cargo Handling Agent of their arrival, the carrier domain can receive the goods. They should have received the following information in advance, which is why filing electronically is always recommended:

- Electronic air waybill information
- Electronic house waybill information for consolidated shipments
- Truck number and type (if available)
- Estimated arrival time (if available)
- Security screening needs (if known/available)

Once the information has been received, and the truck has arrived, an unloading slot and position will be assigned to the driver. Different slots are given according to needs, such as dangerous goods, live animals, ULDs, healthcare products, and more.

Accept Shipments as Ready for Carriage

When accepting shipment as ready for carriage, airport cargo and ground handling personnel must take several steps to meet the requirements to ship goods by air. First, they must verify if the shipments are security cleared. Then they must perform a ready-for carriage check. This entails verifying that all the information aligns with the actual shipment and ensuring all embargoes and operational restrictions are applied. Once everything has been checked, the information is validated against the booking and updated. The primary objective is to ensure the consignments are in compliance with

- Carrier requirements
- Local export rules and regulations
- Rules and regulations of the transit airport(s) and air spaces (if any)
- Import regulations of the destination country

READY FOR CARRIAGE

"Ready for carriage" is a term used in air transportation to indicate that the cargo or goods are prepared and ready to be transported by air. It signifies that all necessary arrangements and preparations have been completed for the shipment to be loaded onto an aircraft for transportation. Here are some key considerations for cargo to be deemed "ready for carriage" in air transportation:

1. Packaging, Marking and Labelling : The cargo must be appropriately packaged, marked and labelled to ensure safe handling and compliance with air transportation regulations. This includes using suitable containers, securing the goods properly, and providing clear labels with necessary information such as consignor and consignee details, handling instructions, and any required markings or symbols.

2. Documentation: The necessary shipping and customs documents must be prepared accurately and in compliance with applicable regulations. This includes commercial invoice, packing list, airway bill or bill of lading, customs declarations, and any additional documentation specific to the nature of the goods or requirements of the destination country.
3. Customs Compliance: The cargo must comply with customs regulations and any export or import restrictions or requirements. This involves ensuring that the goods are properly classified, valued, and documented for customs purposes. Any necessary licenses, permits, or certifications must be obtained and included in the documentation.
4. Security Screening: Depending on the regulations and security protocols of the specific airport or country, the cargo may need to undergo security screening. This involves screening the cargo for prohibited items, dangerous goods, or any security threats. Compliance with air cargo security measures is essential for the safety and integrity of the transportation process.
5. Handling and Loading: The cargo should be prepared for handling and loading onto the aircraft. This includes ensuring that the weight and dimensions of the cargo are within the permissible limits of the aircraft, and any special handling requirements are communicated to the airline or handling agents. Proper handling instructions should be provided to minimize the risk of damage or mishandling during loading and unloading processes.
6. Insurance Coverage: It is advisable to arrange appropriate insurance coverage for the cargo to protect against any potential loss, damage, or liability during transportation. This includes cargo insurance to cover any unforeseen events or incidents that may occur during transit.

Once all these preparations are completed, and the cargo meets all the necessary requirements, it is considered "ready for carriage" in air transportation. The cargo can then be accepted by the airline or handling agents, loaded onto the aircraft, and transported to the designated destination.

Prepare Cargo for Flight

After accepting shipments ready for carriage, airport cargo and ground handling personnel can prepare the air cargo for flight. The goods in transit must be received and security cleared once again. Goods left on the aircraft that are in transit are considered transit cargo. Cargo and ground handling services must give this transit cargo security checks, including x-ray and Explosive Trace Detection (ETD) screening. A detailed exam of the e-AWB, integrity of the cargo, and piece count is made. Once the pre-plan details are received from the carrier, a build-up plan must be prepared, which indicates what air cargo is to be built for flight, and the information is sent to the warehouse.

AIR CARGO EXPORT AND IMPORT PROCESS

Export and import custom procedures in India

Export and import customs procedures in India are governed by the Customs Act, 1962, and the Customs Tariff Act, 1975. The procedures involve various documentation, compliance requirements, and clearance processes. Here is an overview of the key steps involved in export and import customs procedures in India:

Export Customs Procedures:

1. Obtaining Import-Export Code (IEC): Before engaging in any export activities, businesses must obtain an Import-Export Code from the Directorate General of Foreign Trade (DGFT). The IEC is a unique identification number required for all import and export transactions.
2. Preparing Export Documentation: Exporters need to prepare the necessary documentation, including commercial invoice, packing list, shipping bill or bill of export, and any additional documents required based on the nature of the goods and the destination country. They may also need to obtain licenses or permits for certain restricted or prohibited goods.
3. Customs Declaration: The exporter needs to file a shipping bill or bill of export with the customs authorities. The shipping bill contains details about the exporter, consignee, description of goods, quantity, value, and other relevant information.
4. Examination and Clearance: The customs authorities may choose to examine the goods to ensure compliance with export regulations, valuation, classification, and adherence to other relevant laws. Once the examination is completed and all requirements are met, the customs authorities will provide clearance for the export.
5. Customs Verification and Post-Shipment Documentation: After the goods are shipped, the customs authorities may conduct post-shipment verification. The exporter must submit post-shipment documents such as the bill of lading, airway bill, or other relevant transport documents to the customs authorities.

Import Customs Procedures:

1. Obtaining Import-Export Code (IEC): Similar to exporters, importers must obtain an Import-Export Code from the DGFT before engaging in any import activities.
2. Preparing Import Documentation: Importers need to prepare the necessary documentation, including commercial invoice, packing list, bill of entry, and any additional documents required for specific goods or based on the country of origin.
3. Customs Declaration and Assessment: The importer or their authorized customs broker needs to file a bill of entry with the customs authorities. The bill of entry includes details about the importer, supplier, description of goods, quantity, value, and other relevant information. The customs authorities assess the imported goods for customs duty, taxes, and other applicable charges.
4. Customs Examination and Assessment: Customs authorities may choose to examine the goods to verify the declared information, classification, valuation, and adherence to import regulations. After examination, the customs authorities determine the final assessed value and applicable duties and taxes.

5. Payment of Duties and Taxes: Importers are required to pay customs duties, goods and services tax (GST), and any other applicable taxes or fees to the customs authorities. Various payment methods, including electronic funds transfer, are available for this purpose.
6. Customs Clearance and Delivery: Once all the necessary payments are made, the customs authorities provide clearance for the imported goods. The importer or their authorized customs broker can take delivery of the goods after complying with any additional requirements, such as obtaining permits or licenses for specific goods.

It's important to note that the customs procedures may vary based on the type of goods, their value, country of origin/destination, and any specific regulations or requirements applicable to certain industries or products. Importers and exporters are advised to consult with customs authorities or engage customs brokers to ensure compliance with all applicable customs procedures and regulations.

How Air Cargo is Unloaded

How air cargo is unloaded involves fewer steps for airport cargo and ground handlers than the shipping and loading process. There are still many rules and regulations cargo and ground handling personnel must comply with, however. Following ramp safety protocols while performing tasks in a methodical manner help alleviate accidents and keep aircraft turnaround times in check. According to the IATA Cargo Handling Manual, the following are the specific steps to unloading air cargo:

- Unload and dispatch shipment to warehouse
- Check-in shipments
- Arrive shipments
- Custom clearance for international shipments
- Hand over shipments to forwarders

AIRWAY BILL or AIR CONSIGNMENT NOTE

The airway bill (AWB) format may vary depending on the airline or air cargo agent issuing it. However, here is a typical layout and information included in an airway bill

Importance of Airway Bill

Airway bill or Air consignment note is the most important document issued by the carrier or its authorised agent which serves several purposes. It is prima facie evidence of the conclusion of the contract of the receipt of cargo and conditions of carriage. It is the documentary evidence of the conclusion of the contract of carriage between shipper and airlines. It is the proof of receipt of goods for shipment.

Main contents of the Airway Bill are as follows.

1. Airline Logo and Header: The AWB usually starts with the airline's logo and name prominently displayed at the top of the document. It may also include the airline's contact information.
2. Airway Bill Number: A unique alphanumeric number assigned to the AWB for tracking and identification purposes.
3. Shipper Information: Name, address, and contact details of the shipper (sender) of the goods.
4. Consignee Information: Name, address, and contact details of the consignee (recipient) of the goods.
5. Flight Details: Flight number, departure airport, and destination airport. This section indicates the routing of the shipment.
6. Shipment Details: Description of the goods, including the number of pieces or packages, weight, and dimensions. It may also include the declared value of the goods.
7. Charges: Details of any applicable charges related to the shipment, such as freight charges, handling fees, customs duties, or additional services.
8. Special Instructions: Any special handling or delivery instructions for the shipment, including information regarding perishable items, dangerous goods, or other specific requirements.
9. Customs Information: Declaration of customs value, customs tariff codes, and any relevant customs declarations or information.
10. Other Reference Numbers: Any unique identification or reference numbers related to the shipment, such as the booking reference or tracking number.
11. Terms and Conditions: The terms and conditions of carriage, including liability limitations, responsibilities of the parties involved, and any applicable regulations or conventions.
12. Signature and Date: Space for the shipper or authorized representative to sign and date the airway bill as an acknowledgment of the terms and conditions.

AIR CARGO RATING STRUCTURE

Air cargo rates are determined based on various factors, including the weight, dimensions, nature of the goods, origin and destination, shipping method, and any additional services required. Airlines and air cargo agents typically have rate structures with different slabs or categories based on these factors. While specific rate slabs can vary, here are some common categories or factors that influence air cargo rates:

1. Weight: Air cargo rates often have different slabs based on the weight of the shipment. These slabs may range from a minimum charge for light shipments to incremental weight brackets that determine the rate per kilogram or pound.
2. Volume: Some carriers consider the volume or dimensional weight of the cargo when determining rates. If the volume weight exceeds the actual weight, the cargo may be charged based on the higher of the two.
3. Destination: Rates can vary based on the destination of the shipment. Different regions, countries, or airports may have different pricing structures depending on factors such as market demand, competition, and operating costs.
4. Priority or Speed: Airlines may offer different rate slabs based on the level of priority or speed required for the shipment. Expedited or express services usually carry higher rates compared to standard or deferred services.
5. Nature of Goods: Certain types of cargo, such as dangerous goods or perishable items, may be subject to additional handling, documentation, and safety requirements. These special cargo categories may have separate rate slabs that reflect the additional costs and precautions associated with transporting such goods.
6. Additional Services: Additional services, such as temperature-controlled storage, special handling, insurance, or customs clearance assistance, may incur extra charges. Rates for these services can vary based on the specific requirements of the shipment.

It's important to note that air cargo rates are dynamic and subject to market fluctuations, seasonality, and other factors that can impact pricing. Rates can also be influenced by contractual agreements, negotiated rates, and volume commitments between shippers and airlines or freight forwarders. To obtain accurate and up-to-date information on air cargo rates and rate slabs, it is recommended to consult with airlines, freight forwarders, or air cargo agents who can provide specific pricing details based on your shipment requirements.

Different rate slabs for general cargo are as follows

M (Minimum charge)

N (Normal rate per kg)

45+ (Applicable quantity rate for 45kg and above)

100+(Applicable quantity rate for 100kg and above)

250+(Applicable quantity rate for 250kg and above)

500+(Applicable quantity rate for 500kg and above)
The rate per kg decreases for the higher quantity of cargo

SPECIAL CARGO

Special cargo is required extra attention in each phase of handling, accepting, warehousing, transporting to aircraft and documentations due to nature, type and size of the cargo.

Some Specific Cargo and their three letter IATA codes are as below.

1. Gold, jewellery, currency etc-Valuables - VAL
2. Dogs, cats, animals – Live Animal -AVI
3. Dangerous goods - DGR
4. Human remains - HUM
5. Postal mails - POM
6. Perishables - PER
7. Heavy cargo - HEA

Different types of rates in Air cargo transportation

Following are three types of air cargo rates published as per IATA cargo handling manual

1. GCR(General Cargo Rate):- General cargo rates are based on chargeable weight, offers Normal and Quantity weight break points. It offers lower rate for higher weight breaks.

2. SCR(Specific Commodity rate):- Specific commodity rates are in response to the request of shipper whose business involves regular transportation of his goods on certain routes. Also SCR is established to promote export of some product from certain areas.

3. CCR(Commodity classification rate or Class rate):- Class rates or Commodity classification rates are not published in the rates. They are usually stated in terms of fixed percentage of increase (surcharge) or reduction (rebated) of general cargo rates. These rates are applicable for certain class of goods i.e. special cargo

AGENCIES INVOLVED IN AIR CARGO TRANSPORTATION

1. IATA Cargo Agent:- IATA cargo agent is appointed by IATA member airlines to act on their behalf as a distribution network for the airline cargo business. IATA agents act as an airline representative also he offers intermediary service to the shipper and act as shippers representative too.

IATA agents are holding stock of airline airway bills and issue the airway bills on behalf of airline and get commission on sale of products.

2. Consolidation agents:- Consolidation agents who consolidate the cargo from several individual shippers and make into one shipment to the mutual economic benefit of both customer and agents. The rate system which offers lower rate for bigger consignments make it advantageous for the consolidator agent to combine a number of small consignments together which leads a low rate for the total shipment

3. Break Bulk agent:- Break Bulk Agent is a approved and counter part of consolidation agent at destination station . Break bulk agents whose task is to break down the consolidation shipment and to arrange clearance of each individual shipments and deliver to the individual respective consignees.

4.CHA Agents(Custom House Agents):- CHA agents who are authorised and Custom approved agents to clear Export and Import cargo on behalf of shipper and customer. Custom House agent is a person who has licence from India custotoms to act as agent for any international business transaction or the import or export of goods transaction in any custom location.
